

Help shape Irvine's energy future.

Share your ideas and join in to learn more about the plan.

The City of Irvine is developing a Strategic Energy Plan that will demonstrate Irvine's commitment to leadership and innovation. The Plan will support businesses and residents in adopting affordable, efficient, and resilient energy solutions.

This first workshop will focus on shaping the energy strategies related to Irvine's planning, development, and land-use. Please join in this public engagement effort to ensure your ideas and feedback are captured as we create the Plan.
